Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

In the editorial column of one of our contemporaries occurs an obscure allusion to the present drive in the state legislature to prohibit advertising dentists. The words "advertising dentists" are not used but by careful reading of the circumlocution they may be inferred Teetering along with a pail of water on each shoulder, the editorial concludes with recommendation that ethical dentists (words assumed) should not hide their light under a bushel, in other words, the editor thinks all dentists should advertise.

As a matter of fact associations of professional men too ethical to advertise individually are now hiring press agents or secretaries to put over their advertising by indirection, as associations, without spending a penny for the advertising. Over this desk and into the waste basket each week goes a great assortment of such advertising, sent to the editor as news to be published at discretion. As a matter of fact it is plain advertising, which the ethical association hopes to have published without cost. But here one school of ethics comes in head-on collision with another school of ethics, the newspaper school. It is unethical on the part of newspaper publishers to charge one advertiser good money for his advertising, and another advertiser, nothing. Thus the waste basket.

University professors who enter into argument with politicians in the legislature, sadly enough, get all the worst of it. The poor monkey who played with a buzz saw had a better chance of coming out whole. Communist literature is the bone of contention. Frank G. Martin, assemblyman from Los Angeles, who introduced a bill which would apparently make it a felony to have on the shelves of the University of California library, a volume of Karl Marx, makes a tremendous pother about the protest of eighteen professors against his measure. Even Prexy Sproul admits publicly that the professors used bad judgment in their method of protest. "Fiat Lux" declares the University. "Nux Vomica" retorts Mr. Martin.

This reminds us that the evil men do lives after them. No one, not even Napoleon has so vexed the world posthumously as has Marx. While Napoleon destroyed and created empires by means of armies, Marx sewed the world with ideas which beget armies of fanatics that have lately destroyed an empire and created a Bolshevik state. The Marx dragon teeth are still sprouting armies, not so much for the defense of his ideas, as worked out in Russian communism, as for defense against them, as in Italy and Germany. In either communism or fascism the people lose their liberties, their rights, which democracy gives them. From that point of view there is nothing to choose between them.

Our democracy has every thing to fear from extremists, in high or low places. This Los Angeles man, who tries to burn eighteen university professors at the stake of communism on the one hand, and the deluded leaders and deluding leadership of such men as Father Coughlin, Huey Long, Dr. Townsend and Upton Sinclair, on the other, fortunately offset each other. One poison neutralizes another. When one considers the witch burning attempts of these two extremes, there is comfort in the calm and sanity of President Franklin Roosevelt.

FIGHT PUTS TWO TRUCKEE MEN IN HOSPITAL

A. D. Mason, 49, living upon a ranch near Truckee Wednesday night shot by a man who was making a call upon Mrs. Mason, and was in turn badly beaten in the fight that followed.

The unwelcome visitor, Frank Jones, 29, formerLovelock , Nevada, miner was shot in the stomach and left hand with a shotgun.

After Jones was shot he knocked Mason down with a lamp and battered his face with his feet. Mason is in the county hospital here. He received the worst of the fight. Jones is also being treated in the county hospital.

Jones today told Sheriff Carl Tobiassen that Mason was drunk and attempted to enter the house where Jones and Mrs. Mason were. Jones said he knew Mason had a gun and he would not let the husband in. Later Jones went out of the house with a flashlight and a lamp in his hand. He said Mason fired the shotgun and he threw the lamp at the same time and the force of the discharge was diverted somewhat. Jones said he then jumped on Mason and kicked him until he could not arise. He said he then felt weak and went into the house. Mrs. Mason flagged passing cars and the two were brought in Hobart Mills for treatment.

According to Mason's statement made to Sheriff Tobiassen, he, his wife, son, and Jones came from Lovelock, Nevada, to Truckee, where the two men expected to find work in Hobart Mills. The two men had been associated at various jobs in Nevada and when the Masons moved and Jones decided to accompany them.

Mason stated that last Monday Jones told him that he was in love with Mrs. Mason, and so Mason declared Jones would have to leave. Mason stated that Jones declared he would not leave but that Mason would or Jones would kill him.

Threatening to get an officer Mason started for town but before leaving, he stated, Jones entered the house and refused either to let Mrs. Mason out or her husband in. He finally drove away and came back with a small shotgun and tried to attract the attention, according to Mason's statement, of his wife, by going to the back door. Jones came out, Mason declares, and started for him, whereupon Mason shot him. Mason alleges, and shows numerous bruises and cuts on his face to substantiate the charge, that Jones after being shot knocked him down and jumped on his face with his boot-shod feet.

Jones in a similar statement accuses Mason of drinking access and beating his wife when drunk. Jones states that he interceded on such an occasion, and that the men came to blows on the afternoon before the shooting occured. He acknowledges administering a beating after Mason had shot him in the hand.

DONALD FRASER HURT WHEN CAR GOES OVER BANK

Donald Fraser, mining engineer of Nevada City, went to Downieville and Sierra City Wednesday to examine some mining properties and upon his return trip this side of Downieville at about nine o'clock at night something went wrong with the steering gear of his car and he plunged over the grade receiving severe cuts on his head and face. He lay unconscious in his wrecked car until 1:30 in the morning, when he regained consciousness sufficiently to look at his watch and see the time. He slowly made his way to the roadway and caught the first car to pass the Downieville stage which brought him into Nevada City.

He went to the Hoge Mining office and was taken from there to Dr. W. W. Reed where his injuries were dressed and then proceeded to his home on Boulder street.

His car is a total wreck and Mr. Fraser feels lucky in escaping death from such an accident. Several men have been killed and others seriously injured on this road of a "Thousand Curves."

MAY PROGRAM FULL OF GAIETY JOY AND BEAUTY

When the curtain rises on the May Day program at the Nevada City Theatre on May first there will be some lucky folks in the audience. The little performers will dance right in among them and present May baskets to some lucky ones. Seats on the aisle are at a premium.

You may be the lucky one! Each day brings a more finished production. Some favored few who have witnessed parts of the program are full of praise for the little performers.

Little Nancy Maguire walks away with a heap of honors for the manner in which she leads her line of old fashioned girls; Pauline Kan wearing a costume of the flowery kingdom is herself a picture; Sister and Bill Tobiassen sing and danc beautifully and their costumes are gorgeous; these are only a few of the many attractions.

Several organizations have put in a bid for the benefit money and Mrs. Talbot states that she will have a lady representing each organization for the purpose of counting the votes. Your entrance ticket is your vote. Write on the back your preference for the organizations you wish to receive the benefit.

There are fifty little folks in this beautiful affair which promises to surpass all the others.

RELIEF HILL GRAVEL MINE

The Relief Hill mining company near North Bloomfield is washing gravel behind the dam, constructed by Fred Zanocco of this city in the last few weeks. It is estimated the dam will hold the gravel for two years operations. The company with C. E. Clark, as superintendent, has about twenty men employed. This property had a successful season last year and with the abundance of water last winter this should be a splendid spring for the recovery of gold.

Mining news that is interesting will be found in the Nugget.

Alleghany Invites The World May 11

Alleghany, on its high golden ridge, invites the world. The event is the first great community celebration since the fire two years ago that razed the town. Today Alleghany is rebuilt, resurgent, triumphant and proposes to entertain all guests that come there on Saturday, May 11, in a manner commemorative of the great days of the past and as a foretaste of the great days to come.

It will be a fiesta in the old-time California fashion. There will be a automobile show in which dealers of Nevada City and Grass Valley will participate. There will be family reunions and picnic lunches. There will be tours of Alleghany personally conducted by committees of citizens to its points of scenic interest. And in the evening the Players Guild will present in the Community Hall a fascinating comedy entitled "Gay." This great drama, a laugh from the first curtain to the last bow, will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening. Following that will come the dance when merry-makers will trip the light fantastic until the wee sma' hours of morning.

"Come early and stay late" is Alleghany's slogan and all preparations are being made to make May 11, a day long to be remembered.

Alleghany has a great history of which every resident of that mountain-top may well be proud. It was in French Gulch that in 1856 a lump of quartz and gold was found that was valued at $13,000. That historic section has yielded nuggets the gold of which sold for such sums each as $9,000, $12,000 and biggest of all, $20,436. Pockets in that vicinity have yielded as high as $120,000 Alleghany was one of the earliest spots in California to lay its historical foundation in gold. Legends cluster about this Argonaut camp, legends of sudden and unbelieable wealth, legends or tremendous loss, and legends of great come-backs.

Nelson's crackerjack musicians will provide the music for the dance Saturday night, May 11. Everybody and his best girl are invited to come.

PET SHOW GRAND MARSHAL NAMED

The committee on arrangements for the annual Pet Show met Monday evening. The committee will be in charge of the parade and exhibit animals. Those on the committee include Mr. and Mrs. Elza Kilroy, Mrs. Herbert Hallett, Mrs. W. Maguire, Jr., Mrs. Lester Gregory and Mrs. Christian Andersen.

NEVADA CITY VISITORS WRITE OF MOTHER LODE

Due largely to the courtesy of Mrs. Belle Douglass in entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Grant Foreman of Tulsa, Oklahoma, Nevada City and its historical attractions are described in a half page article illustrated with pictures of Tahoe and the Mother Lode in the Tulsa Daily World of April 14. Mr. and Mrs. Foreman were visitors in Nevada City some weeks ago. They asked to meet someone who could tell them about Nevada City and the adjacent country, especially its scenic and historic spots and how to reach them. They were introduced to Mrs. Douglass who hospitably acted as their guide. The visitors were especially interested in California influx of Cherokee Indians in the early days. Grant Foreman has written a history of the Five Civilized Tribes of which the Cherokees were one.

N. I. D. VS P. G. E. SUIT NEARS END

The testimony Wednesday of P. M. Downing, vice president and engineer of the Pacific Gas & Electric company, defending the suit brought by the Nevada Irrigation district for some $200,000 for water delivered under contract to the utility company during 1927-28, was a general denial of implied or explicit acceptance of the water for pay under the terms of the contract.

Downing, who graduated from the engineering department of Stanford University in 1895 and has been in the employ of the Pacific Gas & Electric company since 1901, declared that Tibbetts engineer for the N. I. D. in formative stages, had told him that about fifty percent of water contracted for could be delivered beginning July .1927, but that the company had accepted it largely as an accomodation to the district itself, in order that its water users, mines and municipalities might not run short.

Attorney Dunn for the defense sought to establish an offset charge against the N. I. D. as the result of this alleged accomodation to the district.

The question of whether it would be permissible to try to establish a counter claim of this character under the defendant's answer to the complaint, was submitted to the court.

Col. Hunt, engineer, witness for the P. G. & E. yesterday afternoon was cross examined by Attorney Palmer for the N. I. D. The colonel testified regarding the spill from Lake Spaulding. An effort on the part of the plaintiff's attorney was made to show that there was always a considerable amount of water spilled and had been prior to the time the Pacific Gas & Electric alleged it had spilled the water delivered, beginning July 1, 1927, as the district officers believed, in compliance with the terms of its contract.

It is expected that the hearing of testimony will be concluded and that the closing arguments in this trial will be made today.

$50 FINE SELLING LIQUOR TO MINORS

Bob Homberg and Arch Kaplain who were arrested Friday night by Chief of Police Robson for selling liquor to two minor youths were brought before City Judge Miles D. Coughlin Monday. Kaplan was discharged because of insufficient evidence. Homberg plead guilty and was fined $50.

The defendant claimed that the two fairly well grown boys 15 and 19 years of age told him they were of lawful age.

The court admonished that even though some cases seemed to have extenuating circumstances selling liquor to minors would not be tolerated and dealers must be held responsible.

Unless We're All Blinded

Some years ago when the nation began to realize that one reason it was sick was because the farmer was down and out, it came running to California to learn how to pull agriculture out of the sloughs in which it was bogged. Then, in setting up its agricultural adjustment machinery for the entire country, the present administration modelled the whole thing after what it had found out here.

But California was not standing still. After the AAA, with its marketing agreements, had been put into effect, this state supplemented it with new laws which clamped down on the small minority of chiselers who wanted to enjoy the good created by the act, without carrying any of the responsibility.

Now when this minority kicked, the courts, while tacitly admitting California's licensing law to be a good thing, nevertheless were constrained to question the right of the state to have such laws. And, unless this most recent California-developed technique in agriculture management is incorporated into the national act, the whole new structure which has increased returns to agriculture of this state by $50,000,000 may topple and crash. If that happened, we'd all be back in the mess.

The necessary amendments to the national AAA act are now pending in Congress. And unless we're all so blinded by the multitude of quack cure-alls floating about that we can't recognize something sound when we see it, we will certainly let Congress know that these amendments must be adopted.

It Must Be Done

(Contributed)

Mechanically speaking, the automobile of today is infintely safer than that of ten years ago. Brakes reach perfection. Lights have been vastly improved. Steering mechanisms are fool-proof. Car bodies can stand terrific punishment.

Similar progress has taken place in road building. The modern highway, with traffic lanes, banked turns and "skidless" surfaces, is a tribute to engineering science, which has done wonders in seeking to make driving safe and pleasant.

Yet automobile accidents continue to rise—both in number and severity. The motorist has no alibi. He can't blame the car or the road for mishaps, save in an infinitesimal percentage of instances. The human element—and the human element alone—is at fault in ninety-odd accidents out of a hundred.

Most drivers are competent. Most are careful. Most realize that an automobile is a potential killer. But that minority of motorists which is either careless, incompetent, or plain reckless, menaces us all. Perhaps ten percent of drivers fall into one of those categories—and the lives, health and property of the other ninety percent is placed in peril because of them.

Last year saw 36,000 people killed—unnecessarily—in auto accidents. It is the duty of every citizen and every unit of government to see that a different record is made this year. Traffic laws must be modernized and enforced with the utmost strictness. The dangerous driver has been given every chance. He has been urged to change his ways, and has refused. Now he must be forced to drive safely—or be deprived of the right to drive on public streets and highways.

Black Bart an' Me

Upon the road to old San Juan,
I met Black Bart the bold;
"Quick, stick 'em up," he shouts at me,
"An' pungle out ye'r gold!"
I sneers, "now looka here, my friend,
You're nothin' but a ghost;"
He glares wild eyed an' drapes hisself
Around a near by post.
He waves a spooky gun an' wails,
Don't you git fresh with me;
I stuck ye'r old grand pappy up
One night in Cherokee."
I says, "I'm glad you ain't alive
Tonight, my shady fellow;"
He then retorts, "well so be I,
Ye'r modern crooks is yellow.
I liked to take a gamblin' chanct
An' tote a good six gun;
I met hot shot gun messengers
An' got 'em on the run.
But when ye'r modern bandit takes
The risky down grade track,
He puts his man upon the spot
An' pots him in the back!"
Says I, "if you don't like it here,
Why don't you go away?
Git back to Pluto's underworld,
Where such as you should stay."
"I can't," he wails an' wags his head;
"I've been put plumb to rout;
Ye'r gangsters comes down there so fast
They crowds old timers out.
That's why I'm hauntin' here tonight
The roads to old San Juan;
You'll find me neither here nor there
When day begins to dawn!"
He wavers an' emits a groan,
He undulates there too;
Then with a right blood curdlin' screech
He vanishes from view.
I ain't afraid, but even so
I steps upon the gas,
An' burns the Golden Highway up
From Mike's to Yuba Pass.
An' since that night I never takes
The road to old San Juan
Between the hours of twelve midnight
An' five of early dawn.

WAGES ADVANCE BUT MORE MEN UNEMPLOYED

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—California has been one of the unemployment centers of the United States during the past winter. The low cost of living here, with heat, food, clothing and rent costs below the national average, has been the reason for the great indigent influx.

A recent report of the State Labor Commissioner shows that in March fewer people were employed in California than a year ago, although more money was being paid in the wages. From these figures it can be deduced that business is improving enough to raise salaries, but that sufficient confidence has not been restored to augment office, factory or farm forces.

One factor has already started operating which will step up the recovery speed to such an obvious extent that confidence will be increased, with its impetus adding to the general uptrend of economic conditions.

This factor is particularly strong in California, a sort of natural recompense for this state's support of such a large per cent of the nation's unfortunate. The factor, of course, is agriculture, whose force is already beginning to be felt in increasing purchasing power. Partly due to excellent rainfall this year in California and partly due to the lack of rainfall in other parts of the country, agriculture is due for a small boom, the boom being confined to the Pacific Coast.

To mention just one example, California's bumper Valencia orange crop will find a ready market this year. Last winter, Florida experienced a heavy frost which destroyed most of her oranges for this season. To mention a livestock industry example, drought conditions in the Midwest and the government tuberculosis eradication program have cut down competition for California livestock men. Grazing conditions here are excellent.

Canneries are beginning to open up; hundreds will be employed in fields and on ranches throughout the state. Allied industries such as farm machinery and chemical companies which manufacture sprays and fertilizers will be given a boost. This will mean employment — relieving the relief load—increased purchasing power and an increased turnover of money and goods.

The state looks to agriculture to lead forward to a prosperous year. As proof that business realizes the corner is turned, a group of bankers bought the entire $24,000,000 state relief bond block which was issued at the lowest rate of interest and brought the highest premium of any issue of California bonds in the state's history.

The ladies of the Methodist church are all working very industrious to make the church bazaar given here Saturday night, April 27, a success. These ladies are raising money to repair and fix up the church. Every one is welcome to attend and help a good cause.

Mrs. Acton Cleveland and Mr. F. J. Joubert of Camptonville came up Tuesday evening to see the movie "Bright Eyes." They were accompanied by Misses Dorothy Hays, Mary Eckles, Delores Bishop.

Norman L. Casta of the Red and White store took a load of freight to Sierra City Wednesday morning.

Downieville sure must be a lovely place to go. Everyone is friendly so Saturday night the people all turned out to the dance and all were making merry when Mr. Skunk decided to join the merry-makers about midnight; so when Mr. Skunk made his appearance every one left and the places of business closed up for the night.

Lumber Talks

It may be a cheery greeting—
A "hello there," and a smile,
It may be the moment taken
To discuss a lumber pile;
It may be advice well given,
Or a "so long," at the door;
But we hope you'll feel the presence
Of that little something more. —A. M. C.

FRENCH CORRAL

(By MRS. K. SULLIVAN)

FRENCH CORRAL, April 25.—Wonder if the rainstorms are over! A few delightful days make us forgetful about the bad weather.

Mr. A. F. Conner of San Rafael is spending Easter vacation at the old home place in Birchville.

Mr. Clifford Oliver of Santa Rosa and his nephews Kenneth and Donald Jargis and Miss Whitehead of Lakeport were Sunday visitors in French Corral.

Donald Jarvis has entered the navy but is home on a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bishop and son, Lester of Marysville were Sunday visitors.

Mrs. Gladys E. Noce of Jackson paid her official visit to Columbia Parlor, No. 70, N. D. G. W. on April 17. She was accompanied by Past Grand President Allison F. Watt and Mrs. Elsie Schwartz, a member of Columbia Parlor, and several from Manzanita Parlor. The visitors made the trip by way of Bridgeport, that historical old spot in Nevada County, there crossing the South Yuba on the covered wooden bridge.

There is now said to be but one other bridge of this kind in California.

This wondrous old bridge is truly an object of history having been built in 1862. It passed nearly 73 years of endurance and still passes inspection.

After arriving in French Corral, they were met by the members of Columbia Parlor and all repaired to the home of Sister Fanny Moulton, where a dainty and delicious luncheon was served. After luncheon, all came to the parlor hall which is situated a little above French Corral, in what was known in the early days as Emire Flat. With greenery and wild flowers the little hall had been converted into a bower of beauty—golden poppies in its gorgeous splendor.

The members of Columbia Parlor are pleased to exhibit their treasures among them a set of beautiful silk banners, the first used in the order. Columbia Parlor's members can work with enthusiasm after this most instructive visit of the Past Grand President. Past Grand President Allison F. Watt instituted this parlor 43 years ago.

FRIENDLY SERVICE

The friendly spirit of helpfulness, a reminder of the village church and neighborly calls, is recalled by those who have called upon Holmes Funeral Home when the services of a funeral director were needed. Yet in spite of this added attention to details which make Holmes' funerals so much finer, there is no extra charge. Holmes include all services—the use of motor equipment and the chapel. They are within the reach of the most modest budgets.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
by Graham Berry

(By WNU Service)

If a reporter is sent to a track meet and the meet is rained out, he returns to his boss and reports that the event was called off on account of rain. If a reporter is sent to Sacramento to cover the Legislature and he finds so heavy a fog surrounding the Capitol that no legislative activity is possible, he cannot return to his desk without a story. This is one of the tragedies of political journalism.

All this is by way of saying that after seven straight weeks of politics, promises and procrastination, the California Legislature has accomplished practically nothing. After a feeble flurry of activity over the income tax two weeks ago, the One-Hundred and Twenty settled back and waited for something to happen.

Not that there hasn't been plenty of activity at the Capitol but that it has all been of Felix the Cat caliber, walking back and forth over the same carpet.

Senator W. P. Rich, president protem, has told the upper House to shift into high gear. Said he, "I have been asked to introduce a resolution calling for adjournment on May 10th, yet practically nothing has been done so far."

He added that as a member of the taxation and revenue committee he had attended discussions on practically all the proposed taxes to balance the budget, but that he had not heard anyone in favor of them.

Believing that the budget should be balanced by some tax program, he continued, "Whatever plan for raising revenue is put through is bound to hurt somebody, and probably there will be plenty of protests from home."

A joint legislative committee, composed of seven senators and seven assemblymen, is being considered to pull the state finance situation out of the bog of indecision. This group would consider the whole tax program and present it for legislative vote. The Senate has passed on the idea and it should come up for Assembly vote this week. It was such a committee as this that formulated the 1933 tax program.

Meanwhile state departments have been notified by the assembly ways and means committee to prepare to submit budgets calling for 25 per cent cuts of the amounts scheduled in the governor's biennial budget proposals. It was pointed out by Assemblyman C. C. Cottrell that unless a tax program is shoved through shortly, budget cuts must be made.

Facing this alternative and with the end of the session tentatively less than three weeks off, it is hoped that action will be the order of the day from now on. Following Easter week-end, the Legislature plans to convene every day until the final gavel slap.

Vetoes and Taxes

No sooner had Governor Frank Merriam's pen scratched a veto on the 70-car limit railroad bill, than the scratchings of many pens floated across the Tehachapi as petitions were being prepared to recall the governor. Last week-end, labor forces conferred in Los Angeles with Assemblyman Hunt to discuss the recall drive.

At the same time legislative forces organized to master the necessary two-thirds votes to over-ride the veto. The reconsideration of this bill will be a major test of Merriam's legislative strength, observers believe.

His senate veto message said that higher transportation costs would inevitably result from this measure, adding to business and agriculture expenses. It was another measure which would jeopardize California business, he believed, saying that he favors it, but on a national scale. He also agreed on the safety factor, labor's major plea for the bill.

After careful consideration, the Legislature and the governor have finally been induced to approve the oleomargarine tax, a ten-cent levy on the butter-substitute made from cocoanut oil. This tax—as mentioned last week—is the first to successfully run the gauntlet at Sacramento. The levy will be paid by the Philippines, not by California.

Observers see in the passage of this levy, two things. First, that the Legislature is timid about passing major tax bills, fearing constituent disapproval. This delays action and drags out the session, which cost taxpayers money. Second, reticence in enacting taxes which have a pile-driver effect on the family wallet is a good thing. The driver must be adjusted to fall on the pocketbook just as slowly and lightly as possible.

Legislators are faced with the paradox of pleasing their constituents and balancing the budget. It is these two forces, always pulling against each other, that have caused passage of many minor bills and have made legislators timid to take the budget bull by the horns and hog-tie him with tax levies.

Already Dame Rumor has sibilantly whispered of groups of taxpayers organizing to lobby for lowered taxes at any cost. The groups are aiming to protect themselves from both state and national increases in levies, it being pointed out that John Public pays little in direct taxes compared with indirect levies. For instance, there are 17 indirect tax on bread, 23 on shoes, 42 on automobiles and as high as 58 on other commodities.

These figures were strung out on publicity's clothesline following threats of several prominent Californians to move to other states if the Chatters income tax bill was passed. Pressure of this sort, among others, has caused the Senate to think twice before giving the nod to a state income tax. The Assembly, of course, has already passed the Chatters measure, 70 to 5, which which would enact a state levy equal to one-third Federal rates.

Two groups have now threatened to migrate from California if excessive levies are passed—the motion picture interests and a large number of persons already paying high rates on the Federal income tax.

To keep taxes down and still balance the budget is the aim of State Controller Ray L. Riley's proposal of "a reasonable ad valorem tax by the state."

Riley made it clear that this tax would be one way to increase state revenues without adding to the tax burden of the small property owner and consumer. His arguments were based on a report of the board of equalization which advocated the adoption of the Riley-Stewart plan, voted on less than two years ago by the people. This plan would transfer utilities taxes from the state to local coffers.

The State Controller declares that the shift would automatically cause the utilities to pay $6,000,000 more a year in taxes, or a total of $34,500,000, if taxed on an ad valorem basis. This also is brought out in the board report.

The Legislature is considering a moratorium of two years on the Riley-Stewart plan, delaying transfer of utilities tax revenues from state to local rolls.

Bourbon Stock Rising

The name, Epic, has been heard many times at the Capitol in connection with legislation, but invariably measures sponsored by followers of the Sinclair-inspired standard have come out on the short end of the score.

After seven weeks of playing the pugnacious under-dog, Epicers are gaining ground on one bill, and their first cousins, the Democrats, are coming into their own on another proposal.

The Epics feel particularly jubilant over success of the "production for use" idea. The State Relief Administration is backing them on this issue, since there are several hundred such self-helps now operating in this state—to the benefit of both the self-helps and the relief administration, which is relieved of considerable direct relief finance burden thereby.

Strangely enough, Assemblyman Boyle, Democrat, has prepared a co-op plan which he will attach to his rehabilitation act as an amendment. This same act has been introduced into the upper House by Senator Swing, a Merriam Republican. The move makes the Republicans leaders in a drive to push through an Epic idea. The self-help idea has become a major political issue in Los Angeles, where Epic organizations are attempting to stir up enthusiasm for Merriam's recall. Epicites are merely trying to arouse administration antagonism now, since a governor must be in office for six months before recall action can start.

Anyhow, the co-op plan guarantees against competition with private industry. The SRA (there is no more SERA) guarantees ten millions for co-operatives during the next two years, but neither the Republican nor Democratic rehabilitation acts provide for fixed appropriations.

The other measure whose success is raising Democratic stock is the sales tax. Two sales tax bills have been under observation in the assembly revenue and taxation committee, one by Assemblyman Peyser and the other by Assemblyman Hunt. Hunt's is the Democrat bill, which would exempt all foods from the sales levy. Peyser's would exempt foods, but with certain reservations.

The Hunt bill was killed in committee, the Peyser bill being substituted for it. An Assembly battle followed, in which Democrats accused the governor of using "the whip" to kill Hunt's measure, and in which Republicans countered with statistics showing the Democratic measure would mean a $35,000,000 loss to the state while the Peyser bill would mean a loss of only $20,000,000.

The outcome of the fracas was a smashing Bourbon victory, when the Assembly voted 42 to 25 to bring the Hunt-Jones measure out of committee. Cheers filled the chamber when the vote was read off.

Moratoriums Favored

It's moratorium time at Sacramento. Two important moratoriums are being considered by the Legislature, one on tax delinquencies and the other on mortgages and trust deeds.

Factionalism which had developed over the mortgage moratorium ideas have disappeared like clouds after a storm. An agreement has been reached between backers of the Peyser bill and supporters of the Jones measure. A flat two-year moratorium for those delinquent on principal payments, but up-to-date on interest, insurance and taxes is expected to be enacted.

The Peyser bill will prohibit foreclosures and the Jones measure will help those persons who are delinquent in interest as well as principal. Under these bills, insurance and taxes must be paid, but the property owner may avert foreclosure by going into court. After reviewing the case, the judge has the power to order the owner to make what payments he can, or to permit him to suspend both interest and principal for a period not to exceed two years.

Both measures are expected to have clear sailing through both houses.

As for tax delay moratoriums, the Legislature recessed last week without acting on proposals to grant further moratoriums on taxes delinquent April 20. Relief for delinquents may be voted shortly, but taxes are now delinquent under the old law which makes April 20 the deadline.

NEVADA THEATRE SHOWS FINE WEEK END PROGRAM

An accusation of having murdered his own partner hung over Jack Perrin like a sinister cloud, darkening his whole life. Every man's hand was against him, no one, except a girl, who was both loyal and sweet, had faith in his innocence. What would you do under such circumstances, quit, or fight it out? See how Jack solved the problem in "The Cactus Kid" his latest thrilling Western, a film surcharged with tearing action and razor-edged suspense. It plays at the Nevada Theatre Friday.

"Murder in the Clouds," the First National production which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Nevada Theatre on Saturday, is a melodramatic mystery thriller with a most amazing plot involving the commission of wholesale murder thousands of feet in the air.

The story, is one of fast and furious action, breath-taking suspense and enough thrills to pack a dozen pictures. It evolves about the secret attempt of international spies to steal the formula from the United States government of a new high explosive and to obtain which they are willing to commit any crime.

There also is a flaming romance in which two air pilots battle for the love of Ann Dvorak.

Lyle Talbot and Gordon Westcott are the rivals. Wescott is also one of the conspirators.

The radio broadcasts of Jack Benny which have delighted millions over the air are a feature of Reliance's "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," which brings an all star cast of screen and radio favorites to the Nevada Teatre on Sunday and Monday.

Benny plays a master of ceremonies broadcasting from a palatial ocean liner plying between New York and Europe in this sparkling comedy drama with music, mystery and romance from the pen of Leon Gordon. With Nancy Carroll and Gene Raymond, Benny heads a cast including Sydney Howard, who is known as England's Charlie Chaplin, Mitzi Green, Sid Silvers, Frank Parker, The Boswell Sisters, Sidney Blackmer, Ralph Morgan, Shirley Grey, Sam Hardy, Patsy Kelly, William Boyd, Jean Sargent and Jimmie Grier and his orchestra. Benny's famous radio satire, "Grind Hotel," is included in the broadcasts, and another heighlight is the inimitable imitations of screen stars for which the now grown-up Mitzi Green is noted.

Four new song hits are introduced in this Harry M. Goetz-Edward Small production. "It Was Sweet of You", "Rock and Roll" and "Oh, Leo!" written by Sidney Clare and Richard Whiting and "If I Had a Million Dollars," by Mercer and Malnick.

LETTER OFFERED AS HOLOGRAPHIC WILL

A letter written by Daniel Conroy, now deceased is offered as a holographic will in the superior court here. The letter written to Margaret Conroy, also deceased, on May 20, 1926, has been offered for probate in the Superior Court. The letter to his sister, because it states, after telling his sister that he had suffered a severe heart attack that day, and he feared another would follow.

"I want you to see that people are paid for every kindness, with what I have. And I want you to have the patented claim of mine (Lonesome Ranc) to do with as you see fit."

John F. Riley, formerly of Grass Valley, now of San Francisco is attorney for Julia T. Conroy, who asks for letters of administration with the will annexed.

A sister Julia F. Conroy, of San Francisco, and a brother, Phillip Conroy of Grass Valley are the sole surviving heirs. The estimated value of the estate is $1000.

PETITION FOR LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

A petition for letters of administration on the estate of Margaret Parsons has been filed in the superior court by Attorneys Jones and Finnegan for Margaret Peard Pierce a daughter of the late Mrs. Parsons.

The petition recites the death of Mrs. Parsons, August 31, 1918, and that she left an estate consisting of real property in Nevada City, valued at about $1000. The heirs are Harry J. Parsons, surviving husband, the petitioner Margaret Peard Pierce, a daughter, and Wendel Parsons, a son now deceased.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church met Wednesday afternoon with fifty members present. NELSON EDDY MOVIE STAR TO SING IN SACTO.

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—Nelson Eddy's scheduled concert in Sacramento Memorial Auditorium, May 3, is causing considerable interest due to the increasing popularity of the handsome young radio and movie star. Eddy's appearance in "Naughty Marietta" is the subject of an article appearing in the current issue of Time.

Many reservations already are coming in from valley towns, according to Sidney M. Camp. Tickets are on sale at the box office in Ye Music Shoppe.

"As personable a singer as his most serious Hollywood rival, Lawrence Tibbett," says Time, "Nelson Eddy arrived in cinema by an even more circuitous route."

The son of a Providence, R. I., manufacturer, Eddy sang first as a choir boy in Grace church. After grammar and night school, his first job was that of a telephone operator in an iron works factory.

FORMER NEV. CITY MAN WRITES OF LIFE HERE

C. E. Parsons of the Gillette Nursery is in receipt of an interesting letter from V. K. Chestnut, Hyattsville, Maryland, a former resident of Nevada City. Chestnut tells of his father and mother having arrived in Nevada City in 1860 and living on Piety Hill for ten years. Their home was next to the Jake Holland residence, where the parents of Mrs. Harry Englebright lived.

It was several years later, according to Mr. Chestnut, when he gained his first knowledge of the Gillette Nursery on receiving some hazel bushes from Fairchild's with a notation that they came from the famous Nevada City nursery. He writes of his success in growing many of the plants ordered in former years from the Gillette Nursery and closes with the hope that he may soon revisit California and especially Nevada City. He states that he has been much interested in reading a history of Nevada City published in 1856 by Brown & Dallison.

In a postscript he inquires if Tom Mein planted the Araucaria that grows in the Englebright front garden. His daughter, Alma, he says, has written an article on that species for the November, 1934, issue of Nature Magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen motored to Sacramento Wednesday for a visit with Mrs. Allen's brother, Charles Guenther.

GOVERNOR MOVES TO SAVE STATE $200,000 YEARLY

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—In line with his general economy program, Governor Frank F. Merriam today had introduced in the legislature a bill designed to save the state approximately $200,000 biennially in the adjustment of salaries of state employees now receiving salaries in excess of the maximum scale set by the State Pernonnel Board.

The proposed act as drafted by the governor provides that upon the effective date of the bill the salary of every officer and employee of the state shall be reduced to the maximum salary limit for the position held by such officer, agent or employee, as established and in effect upon April 1, 1935. The act shall not affect the power of the State Personnel Board to classify positions and to establish minimum and maximum salary limits or the authority of the Director of Finance to approve salaries. It will affect a biennial saving of approximately $200,000.

This is one of the several moves by the administration to carry out the pleasure of the voters as expressed at the November election by the passage of State Civil Service Constitutional Amendment, known as Proposition No. 7.

Mr. Al Glass of New York City, a student at Cornell Medical college, left for Southern California last Sunday after spending a few days as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Gildersleeve.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Williams of Park Avenue in this city entertained with a family reunion last week end and had the following relatives and friends as guests in their home. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roy, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sherb and son of Camino; Mrs. Arthur King and Miss Dorothy West of Forest; James Halkyard and sister, Miss Dorothy Halkyard, of Camptonville.
